Bubble gum and break

Students at the Romulus Senior High School began celebrating the craziness of Spring Break 1988 early last week with a student assembly and several contests. Denise Feliciano (above) won the frozen bubble gum contest, part of the week-long activities. Other events included a pie-eating contest, egg in the spoon race, clothes dress-up - in summer attire of course - tug-of-war for students and teachers, limbo contest, basketball toss, cracker and whistle tourney and junp rope rally. For more on Spring Break activities, see page 3. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Requirement change eyed for graduates

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Romulus Senior High School students might think two new proposed graduation requirements will make their studies less difficult. But members of the school board are hoping for just the opposite.

Romulus School Board members considered the new requirements at their regular board meeting Monday. The proposed curriculum changes include a reduction of total credits needed to graduate from 23 to 22 credit hours and waiver of the required third year of math class for non-college bound students who successfully complete a mathematics competency test.

Board members declined to take action on the plan, referring the issue to the school program and policies committee. The group is made up of three board members and three citizens. After a decision is made at the committee level, board members will again consider the plan, according to Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools.

Nevertheless, six new class offerings – one now a requirement for high school freshmen – were approved by the board.

Tom Dolan, principal at Romulus Senior High School since September, said the proposed changes are the result of a year-long curriculum study by members of the high school staff and school administration. The new graduation requirements are

Students at Romulus Senior High School may face a slightly revised version of the graduation requirements, beginning in 1990. A list of the current requirements and overview of the proposed changes are provided below.

REQUIREMENTS

- Pass 23 out of a possible 24 credit hours
- Take three years of math
- Take four years of English
- Take three years of social studies
- Take two and one-half years of science
- Take health and computer literacy
- Take band, NROTC or physical education

CHANGES

- Take 22 out of possible 24 credit hours
- Non-college bound only: Pass mathematics competency test after two years of math to waive third year of requirement
- Ninth grade: Take "Adolescent Outlook"

Candlelight vigil planned for Flight 255 anniversary

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

An estimated 3,000 people could possibly attend a candlelight vigil at Middlebelt Road and I-94 in Romulus, on Aug. 16 - one year after the crash of Northwest Airlines Flight 255, according to organizations of the event.

Betty Polec, of Mt. Clemens, and Kay Gleason, of Shelby Township, are spearheading a crash support group for the families of the crash victims and two memorial events – one in downtown Detroit, the other in Romulus – to mark the anniversary of the crash. Polec's daughter, Lisa Klaft, 21, and son-in-law, Don Klaft, 23, of Arizona, were among the 156 people killed in the crash. The two were expecting a child.

Gleason's husband, Pat, 49, was also a crash victim.

Planned during the four-hour vigil, Polec said, are the calling out of the names of the dead passengers, a lighting of 156 candles for them and possible placement of small, styrofoam crosses at the crash site, on Middlebelt. The event falls on the heels of a memorial service set for Aug. 13 in either Cobo Hall or the Ford Auditorium, in Detroit.

More than 3,000 people are expected to attend the Detroit event, Polec said, and those in attendance could stay for the memorial in Romulus.

The Romulus event will begin at 8:46 p.m. – the time of the crash.

"I met with (the) Rev. Ron Lund at the crash site, and he had asked me if I was ever in need to talk to come and see him," Polec said of the birth of the support group, "Flight 255/The Spirit Lives On." "We wanted a support group. He told me that if I wanted a support group of this kind, I would have to initiate it myself.

"Between Kay, Ron and I, we worked with telephone books, newspaper clippings – it was difficult to get the names (of crash victims' families)."

Polec estimated that about 75 percent of the families have been contacted, and most have expressed an interest in attending the local event.

Romulus police officials are also preparing for the day. Lt. David Early, organizer of several special police events, including the Flight 255 crash and visit of Pope John Paul II to Detroit, said he met with members of the support group in early March to discuss plans.

Originally, Early said, 156 balloons were to be launched from the crash site. The idea was nixed, however, when it was discovered that the airport would need to be closed during the ballon lift off

Nevertheless, Middlebelt Road will be partially closed during the vigil, and the Middlebelt Road and I-94 service ramp will be completely closed, Early said.

Police officials were unsure of crowd estimates and how much police protection will be needed.

Washington visit nets no promises

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus city officials returned from Washington, D.C., last week without any solid promises – but not empty handed.

While in the capital city attending the National League of Cities Conference March 19 to 22, Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally and Councilmen Jimmie Raspberry, Randolph Gear, William Wadsworth, Ellis Pennington and Economic Development Director Dennis Oakes learned that the national senior citizen housing program had been cut by 70 percent. McAnally said the cut would limit the amount of federally-funded senior citizen housing units built in the Detroit area.

But, the mayor said, officials from the federal Highway Administration indicated informal approval of an overpass and interchange to be constructed on I-94 at Vining Road, a roadway project needed before a $1 billion, multi-use Metro/World Center development project can begin.

McAnally said she expressed concern for the elderly with the senior housing program cut.

"It is a lack of concern for our frail and elderly," McAnally said. "There is no affordable housing agenda in the Reagan administration."

The seriousness of the situation became apparent when McAnally spoke with officials from housing and development in the senior housing program in hopes of securing federal funding for a senior citizen housing project in Romulus.

"We knew things were more difficult. That was the first I realized how much the cuts were," McAnally said. "There is next-to-no money funding it."

McAnally said she does not want to see the senior housing program nixed in Romulus as a result of the budget cut.

"We have a good many years on our senior projects, and we would like to have it ongoing," McAnally said. "We would like to have a campus-like senior center. We have not given up. We are looking into affordable senior housing.

"The government isn't going to assist like before. We have been allocated 100 (senior housing) units in the area. They'll probably do some small projects here and there."

McAnally said during the Reagan administration term, the federal budget for low-income housing nationwide shrunk from $31 billion in 1979 to $6.9 billion in 1989. She said those figures include many senior housing projects.

"Our present needs are being met, but our future needs may not be met. Our senior population is growing," the mayor said.

In addition to cuts in federal funding for senior housing projects, Romulus city officials also learned of a proposed reduction of funding to communities in the federal Community Development Block Grant program.

Junior prom: Students are successful at having 'a ball'

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

For the first time in almost 25 years, the junior class at Romulus High School had a prom staged at the school.

Junior class advisor Bill Raeck, math teacher at the high school, said the event took place March 19 at the high school, the first time in 25 years a junior prom was staged in the building. While the junior class enjoyed a prom last year, it was located at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency.

"We are trying to bring back the tradition to the high school. We wanted to make the dance affordable to the students," Raeck said. "Last year, the ticket prices were $60 and only about 30 couples attended."

> "We are trying to bring back the tradition to the high school."
> – Bill Raeck

This year, more than 60 couples purchased the $20 tickets the week before the event.

Raeck said he and the junior class officers decided on the idea in January. He said meetings were staged regularly until about three weeks before the event. At that time, meetings were scheduled about three times a week in order to make plans, Raeck said.

"We had to start something. We had to get people involved. The kids liked the idea of it. We gave them the pros and cons and they liked it."

He said students and parents became involved in the planning of the event. He added that students helped decorate the gymnasium for the occasion, and some parents volunteered as supervisors at the dance.

He said a video jockey played the music along with music videos as entertainment at the dance. Overall, he said the event was very positive for the school.

"We are trying to promote a positive aspect for the school district. We hope we have started something for years to come," Raeck concluded.

Police chief favors new youth program

Following a youth program presentation to the Conference of Western Wayne, several communities have expressed an interest in adopting the Youth Assistance Program.

The program has been studied by the Van Buren Township Police Department and has received the recommendation of Police Chief Joseph Davies. He plans to present the program to the township board for consideration.

Youth, between seven and 16, who would otherwise be referred to a correctional facility, are given counseling and taught life skills to equip them to live a productive life during the term of the program.

According to Chris Burns, the diversion program is extremely cost effective. Communities have operated an annual program for the same amount of money that it would cost to send one juvenile offender to a correctional facility for a year, she said.

The key to the low cost of the program, she told the CWW members, is that the diversion program operates with one professional conselor, one clerical person and volunteers who establish a one-on-one counseling relationship with the juveniles.

She said treatment plans are drawn up by the professional in charge of the program and the participating youths set goals with the aid of an adult volunteer. The youths also have an eight-week session of life skills – decision making, substance abuse information and other skills. The family of the youthful offender also can become involved through the counseling process or, when appropriate, by taking classes in parenting skills, she said.

Burns said the program is not only cost-effective, but has proved to be successful in halting the cycle of crime by the youthful offender.

"In a six-month follow-up, we found 10 percent of the youths (who completed the program) were in trouble. After 12 months the number of youths in trouble dropped to 8 percent and in the following six-month follow-ups were 4 percent and 2 percent, showing that the program has a long-term effect," Burns said.

ROMULUS DIGEST

Fire department is restructured

Romulus City Council members Monday night approved the restructuring of the fire department to include the ranks of deputy chief, fire marshal and two battalion chiefs.

The restructuring will divide the city firefighting staff and four fire stations into two divisions and allow around-the-clock management of the Romulus volunteer fire department by having a battalion chief responsible for each division. The move will also allow the recognition and promotion of selected fire department personnel, according to Fire Chief William Greenslait.

Currently, only the fire chief and fire marshall are full-time fire department staffers. Volunteer firefighters are on call and are paid $11 per hour when on duty, Greenslait said.

Block grant monies set

The allocation of $87,000 in federal Community Development Block Grant monies was approved by members of the Romulus City Council Monday night.

Council members concurred with the recommendation of Economic Development Director Dennis Oakes to award: $55,000 to the Romulus Historic Center for park development; $2,000 to the Cypress Park development; $15,000 to the Youth Assistance Services; $8,000 to the Romulus Help Center for the minor home repair program and $7,000 to the Romulus general fund for administrative costs in preparing the grant application.

Also, council members approved the re-allocation of $2,000 in 1987 CDBG monies to the Romulus Arts Council. A public hearing was also set for 7:45 p.m. April 25 to consider allocating $16,000 in 1986 funds for street improvements on Wayne Road.

Barden pact is severed

Romulus City Council members Monday night officially terminated a franchise agreement with Barden Communications, Inc. to provide cable television service to Romulus residents. Council members, in turn, approved the transfer of assets from Barden to Omnicom CATV Limited, a limited partner of the N-Com Holding Corp.

The sale of the Romulus Barden franchise was announced last year.

The city franchise with Barden will end May 31. The final closing of the sale of Barden to Omnicom is expected to be made March 31.

Spring fever
Easter break means trek to tropics

By THOMAS M VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

For Romulus High School students, this weekend marks the beginning of Spring Break 1988.

Hot spots for the high school vacationers, mostly seniors, appear to be in Florida, Hawaii, Myrtle Beach, S.C., and ocean cruises, according to Julie Baran, travel agent at Embassy Travel Service, Dearborn.

Baran said interest in cruises is "picking up." She said the cruises are worth the money.

"When you break it down, you get a whole lot for your money. The price includes air fare, the food on the cruise, all entertainment and almost everything."

She added a three- to four-day cruise for one person, depending on the season, will cost about $500.

She said whatever the trip may be, vacation "shopping" should be done at least six months in advance. She said low airfares are usually gone quickly along with cruise reservations.

In Hawaii, students usually like to go to Waikiki Beach, on the island of Oahu.

For the winter lovers, Baran said, some people go skiing in other states.

Not so for some students.

Danny Gaddis said he will be heading to Daytona Beach, Fla., for his spring break.

"We're going to nail Disney World, and we'll probably hit the Keys while we're down there," said Gaddis, who will be traveling with some friends. "We're going to party-hearty down there and go to the beach."

Mike Campbell said he is going to Hawaii with his fiancee – all expenses paid. He said his stepfather is paying for the entire trip.

"We plan to stay on the beaches all day. We'll go around and see some of the sites."

Akram Mukarram said he will be going to Florida, but he does not know when he is going. He said he will be visiting Florida A and M University for an orientation.

And Tavia Matthews said she was also going to a University over spring break – but not for orientation.

She said she is going to the shopping centers and relaxing.

"I'll be staying there for about a week. I'm going to sleep in and watch my soaps."

She also said she will be involved in a ball April 2 for the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority Inkster Chapter.

But what about the student that will not be going anywhere during spring break? Kathleen Rudziak said, "I'll be staying home, relax, hit the malls, sleep in, watch my soaps and just have a fun time."

Knitting: Seniors have fine fabrics sewn up

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Velman Sumner is a woman who enjoys being busy.

And it was this desire to keep busy that sent the 76-year-old to her first knitting and crocheting class at the Romulus Senior Center nearly eight years ago. She's been teaching there ever since and her students have been steadily producing handcrafted items under her watchful direction.

According to Marilyn Masters, coordinator of the Romulus Senior Center, the class meets every Monday at 9:30 a.m. and the students have noticably improved their skill level.

While Sumner has taught the class for eight years at the center, she has been involved in knitting and crocheting for approximately 60 years.

"Velma is an excellent worker. She does a lot and even donates some stuff she's made," Masters said. "She does things in no time at all. She's really tremendous. She includes little designs in the things she makes. She decorates it up to the occasion. You could ask her for a maize and blue sweater and she would probably put a wolverine on it."

Masters said the class learns valuable information about the art of knitting and crocheting from Sumner.

"They are becoming experienced knitters and crocheters. They are really getting good. One lady made a sweater and put little intricate designs on it."

Masters said about 15 women normally attend the class and are generally between the ages of 55 and 75. She added the class is open to anyone of all ages. She said each person attending brings their own supplies and they are provided with the instruction. The cost is only 75 cents per class.

"They're getting better. Week by week and year by year, you can see improvements in the women."

Some items made by the women, according to Masters, include scarves, sweaters, vests and blankets.

"They almost always add something personal in it like a design."

Masters said Sumner teaches at two other classes offered at the center including a ceramics class, offered at 1 p.m. Monday and a needle point class, offered at 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

designed to reflect a new emphasis at the high school level on "quality" instead of "quantity," Dolan said.

"We generated the changes based on what we felt was needed. We are trying to build an equal-opportunity high school, where there is equal opportunities for both college-bound and non-college-bound students," Dolan said.

Members of the school district curriculum committee the group charged with the evaluation of the high school offerings have met since fall with teachers and department heads to study the current needs, Dolan said. Initially, a survey was conducted throughout the school, and personal interviews with educators added to the survey results, he said.

The recommendation to reduce the number of credits needed by students to graduate is based on the presumption that students need to be able to take "challenging" classes without worrying about excess failures, Dolan said. In addition, most area districts have graduation credit-hour requirements set at between 21 and 23, placing Romulus in the middle of the scale.

"So many of the students have trouble in the first two years until they adjust," Bedell explained. "They need this extra break."

Dolan added that the lower graduation requirement could also help reduce the high school dropout rate, since students will "not have to be afraid to flunk a class." Currently, the Romulus dropout rate is between 20 and 25 percent, with most dropouts occurring in the ninth grade.

The total number of students enrolled at Romulus High is 1,530.

In addition to the new graduation requirements, some students would also have a lighter load in math under the new plan. Currently, all students are required to take three years of high school math. Although that requirement would not change under the plan, Dolan said, non-college bound students could take a district-prepared math competency test after their second year of mathematics. If the student passes, he would be allowed to waive the third year of the math requirement.

"We are doing that because that's one of the most feared classes nationally. That's the highest failure rate in schools right now," Dolan explained. "For kids that are 'math brain dead,' two years of math would be sufficient if they achieved a level of competency."

Bedell added that the waiver of the math requirement would allow the non-college-bound student more time to take vocational-education courses related to his field.

The new curriculum changes have been targeted for students graduating in or after 1990, Dolan said. However, the new graduation requirement and math competency tests will not be implemented until school board members formally approve the plan.

The six new classes, however, will be put in place this fall, he continued. Included in the new class list is a requirement for all ninth-graders to take a one-half credit "Adolescent Outlook" course. The class is designed to teach teen conflict resolution skills, Dolan said.

In the class, students will be taught to deal with the problems of ninth-grade students. The course should also eliminate the fears shared by many freshman students, Dolan explained.

Other classes available this fall will be: home wiring; do-it-yourself auto care; female fitness; accounting II; and cross-peer tutoring. School officials hope the new classes will attract both the college- and non-college-bound students.

A robotics technology course was also recommended to be added to the new class offerings. School board members, however, delayed implementing the course because of the $46,000 needed in start-up costs. Bedell said the adding of the class will be re-evaluated next year.

And although approval was granted for the new cross-peer tutoring course – in which students will be trained to counsel other students – board members said that the class must be added using current staffing levels. The class will be taught as a "seventh-hour course" as a bonus to the normal course offerings, Bedell said. Using current staffing will not lessen the quality of the class, he explained.

Despite the hesitancy of the school board to approve the new graduation and math requirements, the new curriculum plan reflects the new "pro-active" rather than "reactive" stance of the high school programs already implemented, Dolan said. In September, students were greeted with new smoking rules and a behavioral intervention system, which included a new in-house referral and detention system, designed to reduce the number of suspended students. The plan, Dolan said, worked at the junior high level during his tenure there and help trim the suspension rate by 70 percent.

"(The students) have reacted extremely positively to what we are doing. We're also trying to get back to where student government means something," Dolan said. "We're seeing some moves in that direction. We're seeing kids getting more involved in leadership. They like the direction we are going."

College 'Career Fair' proves success

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

"One Stop" job hunting highlighted the Career Fair conducted at the Western Campus of Wayne County Community College on Thursday.

More than 20 representatives of the business community and government services presented career information to the college students and area residents who attended the one-day session.

According to Fred Novack, chairman of the Western Campus counseling department, the annual event "attracted more than 500 visitors before 4 p.m. – two and one-half hours before the closing hour of the event."

In addition to answering questions on career opportunities, the firms took applications from interested job-seekers.

According to Janet Volanet of First of America Bank, the most asked questions were "can part-time work lead to full-time employment, is there promotion from within and is there an opportunity for continuing education after hiring?"

"I was able to give a 'yes' answer to all of those questions," Volanet said. "Other applicants asked general career information when they filled out their application forms."

Russel Clement of Farmers Insurance of Belleville exchanged some career ideas with Karen Cupp and Susan Milewski, both counselors for the Wayne-Westland School District.

"When people ask me about the career opportunties in the insurance field, I ask them if they have ever heard of an unemployed insurance person," Clement said. "The answer to that shows the opportunities and security of the field without saying much more."

Although Eric Hill admitted that "it took a bit of courage" for visitors to stop at his booth – the Internal Revenue Service, visitors were interested in the available job opportunties.

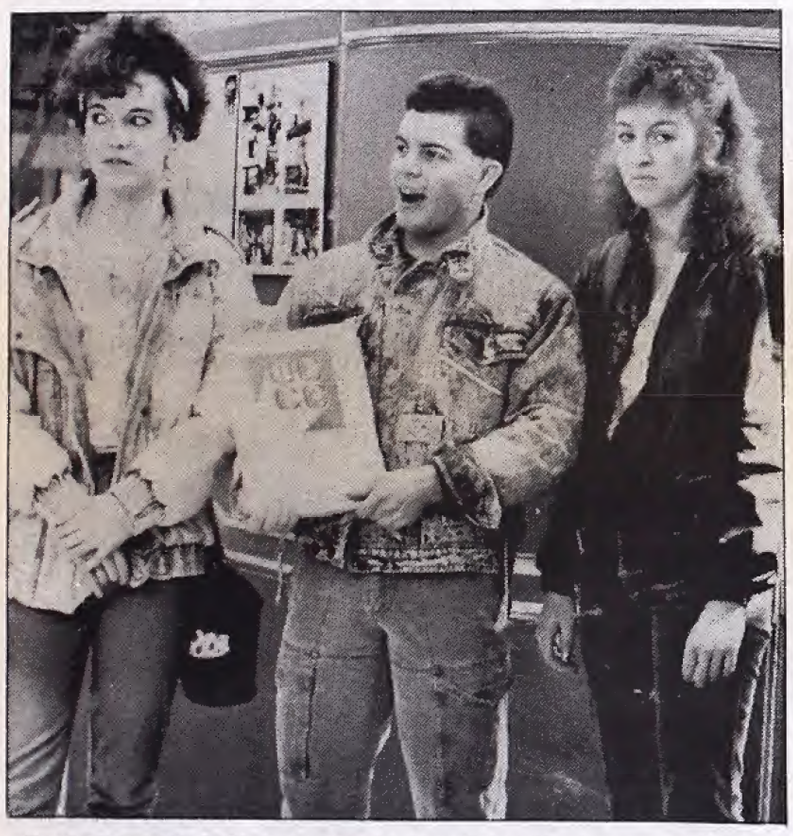
For example, he displayed a memorandum seeking computer specialists for the IRS. He noted that the downtown Detroit data center employs 1,200 people and has positions available for computer programmers, system analysts, systems programmers, equipment analysts, data communication specialists, systems capacity analysts, performance analysts, data base administrators and operational research analysts. Salaries run from $14,822 for technical trainees to more than $80,000 per year for top level management.

"People are surprised that there are jobs in almost every field in the federal services as there are in private businesses," Hill said. "We have all kinds of jobs from clerical workers to computer repair specialists."

Hill noted that there are even jobs for co-op students who are enrolled in a computer science curriculum in an affiliated university.

Other employers who participated in the Career Fair were United Postal Services, U.S. Postal Services, Community Mental Health Services, Entech Services, Domino's Pizza, Kelly Services, Burger King, Huron-Clinton Metroparks, Van Dresser Corp., Century 21, Denny's Restaurants, Jacobson's, Uniglobe Arboretum Travel, the Michigan State Police and the state Department of Corrections.

Organizers of the event were Novack, Fonie Butler, Lynn Van Nest and Vicki Stott.



Paula Straight (left) Craig Stewart and Ronda Marz examine the Western Campus facilities.

Doggie drive-in day set

A drive-in dog clinic, sponsored by the Belleville Area Kiwanis Club, will provide services to Van Buren Township pet owners between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. May 14.

Residents should use the employees driveway to the garage area when they visit the clinic site behind the Van Buren Township Hall.

Fair plans announced

Plans for the 42nd annual Wayne County Fair are in "high gear" for the July 20-24 event.

The fair will feature pig races, Vegas Nights, a monster truck, entertainment, exhibits and refreshments.

The fairgrounds are located at I-94 and Quirk Road, Belleville.

In review: Aintree is too good to hide

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

A superb atmosphere. Good food and service. Reasonable prices. These can only be the characteristics of a fine dining establishment well noted for cuisine excellence, right?

Perhaps not. These are the words to describe the Aintree Cafe, the open-air restaurant tucked away – almost hidden – at the Holiday Inn at Metro Airport, in Romulus.

I had visited the Holiday Inn at Metro last year for a review of the lounge there. I gave the pub high marks, mostly for the wide variety of entertainment offered – live jazz music during happy hour Monday through Thursday and music by Barry "Hitman" Otto during the every-Friday TGIF party from 4 to 9 p.m.

But the secret I didn't discover was one that I won't soon forget. The Aintree Cafe adds a surprising degree of charm and quality dining to the 249-room hotel complex.

The Aintree Cafe is an atrium-like, courtyard eatery, located just past the hotel lobby. It is located beside a running waterfall and is well decorated with green plants, which thrive on the ample sunlight from the overhead skylights. Just off to the side – but not visible while dining – are the hotel pool and banquet area.

The atmosphere is, no doubt, what makes this dining experience a positive one from the minute the restaurant-goer walks in the door.

I visited Aintree on a Friday night with Debbie, my ever-faithful finacee-turned-restaurant-critic. We arrived at opening (5:30 p.m.) and, thus, were seated without delay.

Before opening the menu at the Aintree, the visitor can't help but peer at the many decorative attributes of the restaurant, all which help set the stage for a relaxing evening. With nerves calmed and all woes out of mind, we attempted to select our dinner choices from the menu, which featured more than 13 main entrees, several specials, four casual dinner selections and a variety of appetizers and pre-dinner salads.

Of course, knowing the quality of the hotel lounge I had visited in the past, I didn't miss the opportunity to again sample a cocktail. I must admit, the sloe gin fizz I ordered ($3.50) was one of the best I have been served.

Chicken lovers as we are, Debbie and I both opted for selections from the "poultry, veal and pork" list on the menu. Debbie choose the chicken breast with apricot mustard sauce ($10.95), which was served with long grain and wild rice and snow peas. I ordered a special of the day, the chicken alfredo with mushrooms ($6.95, $2 extra for the salad bar).

Michele, our waitress, was very charming in taking our orders and urged us to take a trip to the salad bar, after we had ordered. The salad bar was impressive enough, with fresh garnishments, salads, soup, bread and rolls.

Next came the meals. Although my logic is probably lacking, I am always impressed with a restaurant in which the entrees are unveiled with the lifting of a metal cover. Nonetheless, I wasn't to be disappointed this time, as the meals were excellent by even my own very fussy standards.

Debbie's chicken was lightly breaded and served with a very tasty apricot mustard sauce. I couldn't help but sample her meal more than I should have.

The alfredo sauce was what made my chicken dish stand out. Michele informed me that the sauce is often combined with several other meats and pastas.

We both declined dessert, but the dessert tray was very tempting. The chocolate layer cake, the carrot cake, the cheese cake.... I gain wait just thinking about those treats.

But the happy ending to this story can't be placed here.

Rhonda Beech, food and beverage director, has taunted me with several upcoming holiday dinner specials. These include an Easter buffet, Mother's Day celebration that will make mom feel like a queen and low-cost family-style dinners.

The Easter buffet will feature roast round of beef, roast lamb, seafood fettuccine, chicken regency and assorted vegetables and desserts. Cost is $9.95 for adults, $8.95 for seniors and $4.95 for children ages 4 to 12. Hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Mother's Day buffet will include prime rib, shrimp and seafood entree from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 8. Cost is $11.95 for adults, $10.95 for seniors and $5.95 for children ages 4 to 12.

The family-style dinners will be featured on weekends after Mother's Day. Prices will range from $5.95 to $7.95, Beech said.

It's a fact. The Aintree Cafe is at a disadvantage because it is located within a hotel, an establishment not usually looked to as a leader in dining. But it's also a fact that this restaurant cannot remain a secret – the food, the atmosphere, the service . . . they are all just too fine to ignore.

I would recommend the Aintree Cafe highly.

The Aintree Cafe is located at 31200 Industrial Expressway, Romulus, just west of Merriman Road. Restaurant hours are 6 to 11 a.m. (breakfast), 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. (lunch) and 5:30 to 11 p.m. (dinner). Dining atmosphere is casual, and families and couples are welcome. Major credit cards accepted. Reservations are welcome – holidays, too. Call 728-2800.

New truck legislation sought

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

The Automobile Association of America launched a full-fledged campaign last Wednesday to let legislators know their constituents want stronger truck laws.

The statewide campaign seeks legislative steps that would, 1) restrict trucks to the right lane of all freeways except when passing, entering or leaving, or facing a hazard, 2) require loose loads hauled by all trucks to be covered and contained securely, 3) require all heavy trucks to have an annual safety inspection, and 4) to increase enforcement of existing traffic laws pertaining to trucks, including speeding and tailgating.

"We are providing postage-paid cards for our members and other motorists to fill out and return to us to show their concern about these issues," stated AAA Michigan President Jack Avignone.

"We will sort the signed cards by legislative districts and present them to individual senators and representatives to give them a better understanding of how their constituents feel about improving truck safety laws."

More than 2,500 members have communicated with AAA Michigan in the last five months demanding that something be done about uncovered trucks. The motorists have complained that debris such as sand, gravel, branches and metal pieces have fallen off the trucks. Almost 35,000 AAA Michigan members filed claims in 1985 for broken windshields.

AAA officials would also like to see more police watching for truck drivers who are exceeding the speed limit.

Pete Brokas, a Westland patrol officer agrees that a lot of truck drivers go far too fast on expressways.

"We are starting to have a problem with trucks because they go far too fast," said Brokas. "We have had four accidents this year already in which trucks were involved. A lot of these trucks were going over the speed limit, and a lot of trucks on the road are in sad shape."

Brokas, who would like to see inspections for trucks, said the Westland Police Department will have a week of classes in April which focuses on truck laws.

Wayne Lt. John Colligan said that trucks can cause a lot of problems but they usually don't encounter a high degree of accidents.

"Most of the time that we have trucks come through they are here to make deliveries and they slow down," said Colligan. "We really don't have many problems because we don't have a major expressway to deal with."

Senior get special help

The Senior Alliance Inc. is initiating a new program which is designed to assist seniors in coping with the complex system of Medicare and other health insurance benefits.

Volunteers trained as counselors will be able to explain Medicare benefits to seniors, assist in filing claims and appeals, and will also be knowledgeable about related health insurance benefits.

Counselors will work one on one with those seeking this free assistance.

For more information call 722-2830.

Heartbeat slated for fair

The monster truck, Heartbeat, will be featured at the 42nd Wayne County Fair which opens on July 20.

Also highlighting the five-day event will be Vegas Nights, pig races and amusement rides. Additional entertainment and fair exhibits are slated at the event which will be conducted at I-94 and Quirk Road, Belleville.

WINNERS CIRCLE

BY LAURIE KIPP

Last month, a Super Lotto Jackpot reached nearly $29 million and the drawing produced a record number of winners sharing Second and Third place awards. With many new players participating, questions came up on how to collect Lottery prizes. The following addresses such happy occasions.

Q: How does a Lottery winner collect prizes from the various Lottery games?

A: The process is easy, but varies by game and prize amount. Prizes of $600 or under from the instant games (the rub off ones) can be claimed from ANY LOTTERY AGENT by presenting a signed, winning ticket. Prizes of $600 or under from the Daily 3, Daily 4 or Super Lotto can be collected from ANY AGENT SELLING THOSE GAMES.

Q: What if the prize is more than $600?

A: If a prize is over $600 but not a Super Lotto Jackpot winner, it can be claimed two ways. A winner can go to any Lottery agent who sells the game and fill out a claim form. The retailer forwards it to the Lansing Lottery office and a check is mailed to the winner in about 3-4 weeks.

Q: What's the second way?

A: To get the prize check faster, a winner of more than $600 can go to any of seven Lottery offices located in Bridgeport, Detroit, Grayling, Lansing, Marquette, Southfield and Wyoming. The claim is usually processed immediately and a check is given on the spot.

Q: What if I'm a Jackpot winner?

A: Should you win a Jackpot prize, contact Lottery headquarters in Lansing to make arrangements to claim your prize. The phone number is (517) 887-6840. Jackpot winners generally receive their first payments within a day or so, with many check presentations made at the retailer's store where the winning ticket was purchased.

Q: How long do I have to claim my prize?

A: All winners have up to one year to claim their prizes. After that, the money reverts back to the Lottery's state School Aid Fund contributions, which aid K-12 education.

Q: Are taxes taken out of winnings?

A: There are no state or local taxes on Michigan Lottery prizes. For prizes over $5,000, the Internal Revenue Service requires a 20 percent Federal income tax withholding.

For asking the question leading to this column, Dorothy Erickson of Manistee will receive 50 free tickets for the Lottery's current instant game, "3 Cards Up."

If you have a question not yet covered in these columns, send it to: "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.

Opinion

It isn't nice to fool Mother Nature

There are only two kinds of ideas...good ideas that work and good ideas that don't.

Westland Mayor Charles "Trav" Griffin has, we believe, one of the latter variety with his proposal to convert a portion of the 500-acre William Holliday Wildlife Preserve in his city into a municipal golf course. While a golf course may be needed, the benefit of this small sanctuary to the entire area far outweighs any benefit such a recreational facility might provide.

In both Westland and Canton Township, which borders the preserve, wildlife enthusiasts and ecological environmentalists are sounding a loud alarm at even the suggestion that this wild area be altered in any way. We can understand that concern and we agree with them.

Both Westland and Canton, as we mentioned last week, are virtually teeming with development and construction, in commercial and residential areas. There is hardly a vacant piece of land left in either community that isn't optioned or being considered for construction. And while 500 acres may seem like a tremendous amount of property, it is only a respectful allotment of the area in comparison to the undergoing development.

Why be concerned? Simply because the ecological balance of our entire country is presently being eroded and counterbalanced to a degree which may eventually provide the extinction of mankind as well as the animal life he has destroyed.

This wild area is not a park and was never intended for the short-term benefit of residents. It was intended as a preserve for the breeding and habitation of wildlife which, in light of the construction and area growth, has nowhere else to go. This is truly an area which is attempting to preserve a tiny portion of earth as Mother Nature made it. And it was also intended to protect the birds and small animals indigenous to the area from the havoc man has wreaked elsewhere on earth.

Fresh air in Westland, and in Canton, may very soon depend on the trees in this preserve. If our childrens' grandchildren are ever to see a real squirrel, a living Blue Jay or a genuine raccoon, it may only be through the benefit of wildlife preserves such as the one in Westland.

This preserve should be absolutely sacred to both Wayne County, which is charged with the integrity of the land, and to the City of Westland which has such a magnificent tribute to the caring of man within the boundaries.

Every citizen of this area should be told what the land is, why it is there and instilled with a respect for the vision and forsight of the man who left the land for this purpose.

Each of us who considers our surburbia less than rural and looks at our lives as cosmoplitan and urbane must remember what we took away from the land and the animals in order to achieve the shopping centers, subdivisions, office buildings and huge retail outlets.

Griffin is not a man disinterested in nature, nor is he a callous or short-sighted individual. He is a leader who is attempting to do the very best he can for his city, and for that he should be applauded. He is right on several counts. Presently, the nature preserve is littered with trash and garbage and in some more accessible areas presents an unsightly image and looks unappealing.

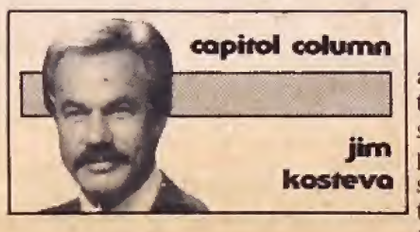
But in less accessible areas, the preserve is just as nature intended it to be. Fallen trees are not removed, there are no paths others than those made by animals and the quiet testimony to the beauty of this planet is tangible.

Griffin is to be commended for his idea. Were this a normal county park fallen to disrepair due to the financial inability of that body to care for it, his suggestion for a golf course would benefit everyone concerned.

But once again, this is land left by a benefactor who sought to preserve a tiny piece of nature for our descendants in this ever-growing and changing world. It is testimony to the respect mankind ownes the land and should be treated as a sacred trust by all who are fortunate enough to benefit from it.

The William Holliday Wildlife Preserve is a means of demonstrating our respect for our forebears, our country and our land. To destroy or convert even a small portion of it is an insult to Mother Nature, to our descendants, and ultimately, the most vicious testimony possible to the selfishness of mankind.

State to offer educational 'tip' to students



For some time, the state Legislature has been working to reduce the dropout rate in Michigan. Recently, law makers and the Governor launched TIPP. a new program designed to encourage students to graduate from high school and continue their education.

TIP --Tuition Incentive Program -- will provide up to two years of tuition and fees at a Michigan community college to qualifying high school graduates from low-income families.

In an economic world which requires more brainpower than brawn, a high school education is essential if a person is to become a productive citizen. A college education further enhances the prospects of success. TIP is a new way to provide this opportunity, as it offers an incentive for students from low-income families to stay in school, graduate and go on to college.

High school graduates this spring will be the first eligible for the program. TIP will be available to students whose family income has been at or below the poverty level for three of the last four years or whose family receives public assistance.

The goal is to encourage young people to graduate from high school and pursue a community college education to develop their skills. By becoming more competitive in a changing job market, their chances of needing public assistance should be virtually eliminated.

TIP is another important state initiative to ensure access to higher education for all. Other key initiatives have resulted in: increased assistance for financially-needy students (up to 162 percent during the past five years); new financial aid and minority enrollment programs; and the first-in-the-nation Michigan Education Trust college tuition guarantee program to help families provide a college education for their children.

When MET is enacted, it will allow parents and other interested adults to invest in a special fund which will be pooled and invested by the state. The fund would provide the designated student with tuition and fees for four academic years at a Michigan public undergraduate institution, or partial tuition at a private college or university in the state.

Not every young person wants to go to college, nor can every student be convinced to complete high school. But these state programs provide a boost for the many who would like to do both. These two programs should help put a college education within the grasp of every Michigan student.

Enterprise gets praise

To the Editor:

On Behalf of the Belleville Lake Association, I would to express our gratitude for the excellent manner in which The Belleville Enterprise, over the past several months, has covered the problem with the French Landing Dam. Your reporter spent many hours attending Van Buren Township and Belleville Lake Association meetings, and your paper presented frequent updates on the situation.

These accurate presentations gave involved citizens the factual information they needed to make intelligent decisions and commitments for completing the new dam. A normal summer water level is expected by the end of April.

We, and I am sure all the others who use, enjoy, and benefit from Belleville Lake, appreciate the community service provided by The Belleville Enterprise during the difficult but democratic process of solving the problem and restoring the lake to its normal beauty and utility.

Letter helps mother feel less like 'everybody's maid'

Mrs. E asked for help in putting into words what she is trying to get across to her almost grown children. She is trying to get them to start accepting some responsibility for helping out around the house. Mrs. E needs both their physical help (muscle) and their financial assistance. She has three children, and they are all working high school students.

Dear Family:

Sometimes when I am driving home from work, I visualize the kitchen sink clean and sparkling, with the dishwasher loaded and ready to run, the beds made, the grass cut and the family room neat and tidy.

I am mentally planning dinner and deciding what chores I must do to make certain that my family has clean clothes, good food, fresh sheets on your beds and a nice, pleasant atmosphere to bring your friends into.

When you children were youngsters, even though I didn't realize it at the time, it was easier for me. I simply told you what to do, where to go, who to go with, when to be home, etc., and most of the time you did what you were told. We had a household that was run in a quasi-systematic and orderly fashion. You went to bed at a certain time, and things were predictable.

Now, it seems as though I am running a boarding house, with husband and kids coming in and out at all hours. People are eating and sleeping on different schedules. It is often difficult to know who is going to be where and when.

I'm enormously proud and pleased with you all. I want you all to know that you have always given me pleasure and brought sunshine into my days. I am writing this letter to you as I really need your understanding and cooperation.

Your mom's running out of steam and stamina. I'm starting to feel resentful that I have no time to myself. I hate feeling this way. Sometimes I fantasize about being able to walk into the house, going to my room and putting on comfortable clothes, opening a clean sparkling refrigerator and finding something to eat and, finally, plopping into an easy chair and relaxing. The kind of fantasies that are realities for other people.

Fortunately for me, I know they are fantasies, however, with a little help from you, maybe some of my dreams may come true for me.

I know that you can't completely understand how I feel, I really don't expect you to. I just want you to know how I feel.

I have a pretty good plan, and I would like to talk with you all about it. May be this Friday evening at 6:30 p.m. we could have a "pow-wow". From what you have told me, everyone should be home at that time. We are all in a relationship that I value, and I know you do, too. I don't want anyone to win or anyone to lose, I just want to solve the problem. Please hear what I'm not saying. I love you all!

Sincerely, Mom

RESOLUTION:

The family did meet and talk. Some of Mrs. E's problems were solved, at least for a while.

PSORIASIS— CAUSES AND TREATMENTS

By Michael T. Goldfarb, M.D.

Psoriasis is a fairly common skin disease affecting almost four million people in the United States. Even though many people have heard of psoriasis, there are still many misconceptions about this problem.

A CHRONIC PROBLEM

Psoriasis is a chronic problem. It appears as elevated red patches covered by silvery, dry scales. Many people complain of itching in the involved area.

The areas of the skin which are most affected are the elbows, knees, and scalp. Although psoriasis usually only affects a small part of the body, some people will develop it head to toe.

Rare and more severe forms of psoriasis appear as either total body redness or blisters filled with pus. These people have very tender skin and may even run a fever.

About 10 percent of patients with psoriasis will also develop arthritis. Any joint can be involved, but most commonly involved are the fingers.

CAUSE IS UNKNOWN

No one knows what causes psoriasis. It is believed that a biochemical stimulus triggers rapid cell growth and inflammation. This causes all the thickness, scales, and redness we see on the skin.

Anyone can get psoriasis, but there is another family member with the problem in one out of three cases suggesting heredity plays a part.

NOT CONTAGIOUS

It can first appear at any age, from a baby to the elderly, but the usual onset is between the ages of 15 and 35. Men and women are affected in equal numbers.

Skin injury, emotional stress, and some forms of infections are though to help trigger the disease. It is not contagious.

In next week's article, I will discuss diagnosis and treatment.

State tax plan receives poor report card from local schools

The area's academic community is divided on whether the proposed school funding bill recently approved by the state senate and presently in the state House of Representatives will solve the crucial problem of school finacing in Michigan.

The Senate last Wednesday approved a proposed constitutional amendment 26-8 that would raise the sales tax from its present 4 percent rate to 6 percent. According to the legislators, the switch would generate an additional $200 million annually for state education.

In order to offset the increase in the state sales tax, moreover, the proposed bill would reduce property tax assessments from 50 percent of a property value to 25 percent for residential and 35 percent for business.

Dr. Gary J. Jackson, superintendent of the Huron Community School District in New Boston, praised the legislators' action.

"The action by the Senate," said Dr. Jackson, "shows that they have placed a high priority on school finance reform in this state.

"And I believe that the reform package is a giant step toward solving the financial problems of local school districts. However, what most of us are waiting for is to get a glimpse at what the House is going to do. Obviously there will be some changes before it is presented to the people of this state for a vote," Jackson said. "There will probably be a compromised package."

This is one of the major concerns of local educators who point out that some rich school districts spend as much as $6,000 to $7,000 annually per students while others like Westwood and Inkster have less than $4,000 to spend.

Dr. John M. Hoben, Plymouth-Canton superintendent of schools, viewed the proposal as a "regressive tax" and that the amount of additional money the proposal would raise - $230 million - as insignificant.

"Like everyone else, I do not like to pay property tax," Dr. Hoben said. "however, I believe that it (property tax) is more equitable that the sales tax."

Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of Romulus schools, believes that the legislators are playing politics in an area where there should be sound reasoning.

"I don't think they should be playing around with the property taxes," Bedell said. "If this proposal goes through, our people living in the Towers (senior citizens' apartment complex) will have their sales taxes increased by 50 percent and the General Motors plant here will get about a $1 million tax cut - do you believe that that is fair?

"They know that the voters of this state are not going to approve this," Bedell added. "So after the present it (to the voters) and it is turned down, they (the legislators) can tell us: 'See, we tried but the voters don't want it.'"

Dr. Elvin Peets, superintendent of Van Buren Schools, pointed out that "reform is definitely needed because the gap between the rich (school districts) and the poor is getting greater."

"And the proposal also would not be detrimental to those districts that have money so that they would mount a counter-offensive to have it defeated," Peets said.

Dr. Dennis O'Neill, superintendent of the Wayne-Westland School District, agreed and added that the switch from sales taxes at the expense of property tax also would greeted by taxpayers skeptically.

"You can deduct property taxes for state and federal income taxes purposes. That is not the case for sales taxes," Dr. O'Neill said.

All-Area: tradition continues...

The next generation of collegiate stars

Some of the best basketball talent in the country has been harvested from the Associated Newspapers' circulation area. Johnny Long, ex-Romulus High, U of D and Detroit Piston star;- Fred Smiley; All-American from Inkster High who went on to stardom at Northwood Institute; Terry Mills, "Mr. Basketball" from Romulus High who is presently starting for the University of Michigan.

Others from this area who had brilliant collegiate careers after outstanding prep years included Alvin Dukes, ex-Inkster High star presently playing pro ball in Italy; Duane Fox of Oral Roberts fame from Inkster and his teammate Eartha Faust. Then there were Robichaud greats: "deadeye" James Alverson and the Dennard brothers - Larry and Monte. Monte is being honored today as the Associated Newspapers' "Coach of the Year."

And this year's area cage crop perpetuates that tradition.

The 1987-88 high school basketball season has produced the next generation of collegiate standouts. They include: Maurice Brantley, a 6-6 junior who hails from Belleville High; Willie Maull, Romulus's fast-moving, deceptive and sharpshooting senior guard; Jonathan Marshall, a wizard of a ballhander and floor general who led the Bulldogs of Robichaud to the coveted Suburban Athletic Conference title; Andy Jackson, a 6-0 senior athlete-scholar from New Boston Huron who made the Chiefs a threat throughout the recently-concluded campaign.

Others who were selected to this year's elite club include: Andre Hardy, a 6-3, 180-pound last of the "Hardy Boys" at Inkster High School; rugged and reliable 6-8 center attraction Al Tilman, who kept Belleville in the thick of the tough Wolverine "A" Conference championship race; Brent Bonam, the comet of the Romulus cage ship; Andre Barnett, a 6-3, 190-pound senior from Robichaud who was a key player in the Bulldogs outstanding season; John Spiecker, who was "Mr. Everything" for Huron and Coach Larry Swick's club; James Poole, another diminutive (5-8) guard from Inkster who shot the eyes out of the nets and finally, Randall James, the 6-3 senior from Robichaud who was the Bulldogs' "clutch" performer.

The tradition continues and here are some of the reasons why these players stand above the field:

BRANTLEY, the only junior to crack the otherwise senior-dominated All-Area roster, Maurice averaged 20.5 points per game. He hit 29 - a career high - several times during the Tiger season and also contributed 4.2 assists and 5.3 rebounds per game. Brantley has three years of varsity experience behind him and one can only speculate what he will do next year as a senior. Already collegiate scouts - some 30 of them at the last count - are lining up to woo him over to their respective colleges. Selected to all-conference and all-Metro West honors as well, Maurice is a 3.2 student who is a hard worker and fine young man on and off the basketball court, according to Coach Michael Garland.

Maurice also has been listed in Basketball Times, a national basketball publication, as one of the top high school basketball players in the country, according to Garland. Maurice's older brother, Garrade Pettus, starred at Belleville High during the late 1960s and earned all-state recognition in track and football.

MAULL was the Eagles' floor leader. His credentials included a 12 points per game, four steals and seven assist average. And, coaches in the South Central Conference (Ann Arbor Huron, Pioneer, Adrian, and Ypsilanti) thought so highly of this 5-7 guard that he was named to the all-SCC team.

"Willie is an exciting player," said Romulus Coach Dan Henry. "He makes things happen out there. His quickness could change the tide of the game at any time."

Maull finished his senior year with 247 points and a score of offers to play college basketball has followed.

MARSHALL was selected the Suburban Athletic Conference's Most Valuable Player for the 1987-88 season, and when you consider the teams that are affiliated with the SAC - Highland Park, Inkster, River Rouge, Ecorse, Oak Park - that unique honor speaks for itself.

"He's a one of a million kind of player," noted Robichaud Coach Monte Dennard. "He did everything for this team."

The 5-11, 155-pound senior scored at a ppg. clip, contributed 10 assists per game, and was literally unstoppable when the chips were down. He was 79 percent effective at the free throw line and made 52 percent of his attempts from the field. Not only was he devastating on offense, but equally dangerous on defense. The post-season honors, such as all-Metro West, All-Suburban recognition continue to pour in.

Like all the All-Area nominees, the colleges would like to have Marshall's services next season, but the Robichaud senior has not made up his mind where he will play college basketball.

JACKSON is a brilliant student (ranked among the top 10 in his class) and he also is an excellent student of the game of basketball. Huron's leading scorer with 340 points, Andy has been on the Chiefs' varsity squad for the past two years. He has earned all-conference and all-Monroe County recognition for his feats this season.

"He is a great student of basketball who is able to reap the most out of his abilities by the countless hours he has spent on the basketball court," Coach Swick said. Jackson has been nominated to West Point.

Andy was also the recipient of the Chiefs' MVP award.

HARDY, is the last of three brothers who have stood out as a member of Coach George Thompson's basketball teams. Andre follows in his brothers' footsteps. An all-SAC selection, Andre had an 18.4 points per game average and finished with an incredible 14.2 rebounds per game average.

"He did it all for us," said Thompson, "and the only regrets I have is that there are no other Hardy boys waiting in the wing to fill Andre's shoes. "He has exceptional talent as his credentials indicate and some 15 colleges are eager to sign him to a letter of intent."

Andre was the Vikings' top rebounder, having to muscle his way to the board against taller and more physical players. "But Andre didn't give way to them - they had to fight him all the way," said Thompson.

TILMAN, at 6-8, 190-pound, is the tallest member of the 1988 squad. He was the Tigers' top rebounder with 10.3 ppg and also accounted for 14.3 points per game. Tilman also blocked a total of 47 shots on his way to all-conference honors.

Al will be heading for Texas this fall to play for San Antonio, according to Coach Garland who is quick to point out that "Al is still growing. He grew two inches since the beginning of the 1987-88 season."

An excellent student - Tilman has a 3.2 grade average, Al has earned accolades as an outstanding defensive player. He has been a member of the Belleville varsity squad for the past three years.

BONAM, a 6-3 senior, was hampered by a sprained ankle, and one can only speculate what the Eagles would have done in the playoffs if the high-scoring veteran would have been 100 percent. He finished with a 14 point and 8.0 rebound per game average. And he had an uncanny ability for the three-point shot which he made 40 percent of the time.

In his 16 appearances this year, Brent wound up with 229 points. He was also named to the all-SCC team.

BARNETT, a three-year-starter for the Bulldogs, was a polished cager who got the job done at both ends of the court. A 6-3, 185-pound veteran of three outstanding Robichaud campaigns, Barnett finished the senior season with nine rebounds and five assists each trip out.

"He's what I would call a pure athlete," said Dennard. "He can and does it all for you."

Andre also was picked for all-conference consideration.

SPIECKER, only in his second year on varsity, pulled down more rebounds than anyone else on the team. He had 140 of them for a 7.4 average. And he was second only to Andy Jackson in the scoring column. He piled up 234 points in a 19-game season for 12.3 per game.

Graduating fourth from his senior class will also tell you about the intelligence of this player.

"He's just one great kid," said Coach Swick, "and a privilege to have on the team."

While Jackson was named Huron's MVP, Spiecker was presented the Most Improved Player on the team.

POOLE, the Vikings' leading scorer, was best from the 3-point range where he connected 44 percent of the time. The Inkster floor general averaged 17.6 points per clip and that's after the opposition usually double-teamed him.

"Poole was the floor leader, the general out there," Thompson said. "And he rallied those kids with his exceptional play. You know that our team was handicapped by several injuries to key players and if we didn't have Poole in there, I would hate to think what kind of season we would have had."

One of the top guards in the SAC, Poole managed to come through with 8.2 assists per game and three steals.

JAMES, almost unbeatable on the offensive boards, brought down the curtains to two outstanding varsity years. The 6-3, 190-pound forward, counted 12 rebounds per game and scored 13.9 per in helping the Bulldogs capture their first SAC cage championship. He also shot 70 percent from the free throw line.

"His biggest asset, though," Dennard noted, "was on the offensive boards where he had this uncanny ability to muscle his way through to get the job done for us."

"This team is well organized. It had senior leadership, and we're all thinking 'what if we had beaten Bishop Borgess, could we have won the state title.?'

– Monte Dennard
Robichaud Coach

Robichaud cage coach sets another first

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

When he was playing basketball for Robichaud High School back in the late 1960s and early 70's, Monte Dennard was among the area's finest young cage talents.

Dennard earned All-Area and conference recognition and went on to play four years of college basketball.

When the 6-2, good-looking Dennard returned to his hometown last year Athletic Director Leit Jones offered his former all-around athlete the head coaching job at his alma mater.

Like most first year coaches, there was a lot of pressure and more so on Dennard because he inherited a program that had produced a state quarterfinal team and one that has been in the thick of the Suburban Athletic Conference title race in recent years.

He accepted the challenge and earned the respect of friend and foe on-and-off the court.

"We had a bunch of players who were devoted to the game of basketball," Dennard said after learning he was The Associated Newspapers' choice for basketball's "Coach of the Year" honors. "Not only are these kids blessed with talent, they are well-organized and that opened the doors to our success."

The success story includes a 10-2 conference record which translates in the high school's first Suburban Athletic Conference basketball championship. (Robichaud shares the title with Highland Park). The Bulldogs finished the season with a 14-4 overall record after losing a controversial decision at Redford Township to host Bishop Borgess.

Borgess went on to reach the finals of the Class B state tournament before losing.

In his first year as Robichaud's head basketball coach, Monte Dennard has established himself as a "winner." The Bulldogs capped a 10-2 conference year by winning the Suburban Athletic Conference championship. They also presented their coach with a 14-4 overall season. Dennard earned a post-season honor: Associated Newspapers' "Coach of the Year." ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

It hurts to reflect back and speculate on "the ifs" of it all. What if Robichaud had won the district and not Borgess.

"It's difficult to say," Dennard replied. "You know that basketball and sports are filled with variables. But I sincerely believe that we would have been right there at the finish line if we would have gotten past Borgess."

So do a lot of others.

> Monte Dennard not only starred as a high school basketball player at Robichaud...he also has proven that he is among the leading coaches in the area.

Dennard also attributes the success of the 1987-88 team to "senior leadership."

"You need that kind of leadership if you're going to produce winners," he said.

Monte is married to Bernice.

Dennard may not know it but there is probably another first he set this year. He is the first coach in the ANP circulated area to have been awarded the distinction being named as a prep All-Area and also earning the honor as a coach.

"You really don't realize how time flies," he said. "It seems like only yesterday that I was playing basketball. Now I am doing what I really love - coaching."

Area swim stars on block

The elite high school basketball team depicted on this page may be the first but not the last "All-Area" team to be unveiled by The Associated Newspapers this year.

During subsequent weeks, fans can look forward to the top swimmers, volleyball and gymnastics stars who will be honored here along with Coaches of the Year from each sport.

So, before the cry of "batter's up" is here in these parts, look forward to your favorite "All-Area" right here on these pages.

Inkster seeks softball teams

With spring on the scene, can the recreation softball season be far behind?

The answer is a definite 'no'.

Recreation officials in Inkster today announced registration and organizational meeting times and dates for several prospective men and women softball and baseball leagues.

An organizational meeting will be conducted 6 p.m., Tuesday, April 12 for managers who are contemplating on entering teams in an adult women's softball league. The meeting will be staged at the Inkster Recreation Complex on Middlebelt, just north of Michigan Ave.

> Registration fees must be paid when the prospective players sign up for the summer leagues.

There is a $175 registration fee which will cover the costs for the eight-game season.

The season will get underway on June 8.

If there are questions about the league, contact Ruth E. Williams, athletic supervisor, at 728-7530 between the hours of 1 and 8 p.m.

Williams also pointed out that there will be an organizational meeting 7 p.m., April 14 for those who wish to play in the recreation department's adult men's Class "C" softball league.

The meeting is also slated for the Recreation Complex (2025 Middlebelt Road). A 10-game season is on the drawing boards and the $325 registration fee will help defray the costs for officials, scorekeepers, league and play-offs championship and sponsor trophies.

The Recreation Department also is planning to field an adult co-ed softball league this summer. Those who wish to compete in the league should attend a 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 12 meeting at the Recreation Complex. There is a $175 registration fee and the deadline to submit the entry fee is May 27.

An 8-game season is planned and there is a $175 registration fee.

The adult men's softball league will conduct its second meeting 7 p.m. on April 11 at the Recreation Complex. The 12-game season officially will begin on May 9.

There is an April 30 deadline to get the $385 registration fee over to the recreation department.

Baseball registration will be accepted May 2 through June 20 at the Inkster Recreation Complex.

Players are being sought for the Pee Wee (ages 6-8) and Midget (9-12) Divisions. Both are instructional leagues and cost $6 per player to register.

Recreation officials stress that registration fees must be paid at the time of registration. Registration will be accepted from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

If there are any parents or coaches who wish to volunteer their time and energy to help supervise the pee wee and midget division teams they are

Grant Long:

He did it his way

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Grant Long knows his sport. He knows his name. He's generally a quiet person who keeps to himself. He's the cousin of the University of Michigan basketball player Terry Mills and the nephew of Indiana Pacer John Long. He is the Mid-American Conference MVP and the MAC Tournament MVP.

That's only the beginning.

Long, a Romulus native, graduated from Romulus High School in 1984, playing basketball and having dreams about success.

After he received countless scholarships and "could have gone practically anywhere-across this great nation," he chose EMU.

"I chose Eastern because it was closer to home. I felt Michigan wasn't looking for a player like me," said Long, a 6'8" senior. "I saw the opportunity to play right away at Eastern and I thought the program could have used some help. I figure I could have helped."

Since arriving at EMU, Long said he began playing immediately. Long has played in games since his freshman year.

Long, who explained he's "a rather quiet type of guy," said his career began at North Junior High, in Romulus, in ninth grade. After that, he went to Romulus High School, where he played junior varsity as a sophomore and at the varsity level as a junior and senior.

In basketball at Eastern, Long averaged 23 points per game and 10.4 rebounds, making him one of only three college basketball players in the country to accomplish the feat. He led his team to its first ever MAC title and he also helped lead EMU to its first bid in the NCAA Tournament, where they lost 108-90 in the first round to eighth-ranked Pittsburgh.

"I thought our chances were excellent of winning. I thought they were very, very good," said Long, who scored well below his season average with 15 points and five rebounds. "I think the team and coaching staff were probably the only people that believed we could win. We had a lot to prove to ourseleves and the onlookers who thought we weren't even supposed to be in the same gym as Pittsburgh."

As far as Long's dreams are concerned, they came true.

At the beginning of the season, he wanted to win the MAC championship and play in the NCAA Tournament.

They did.

He also wanted to be in the top three of the league in rebounding.

He finished second.

"You always have to set goals. You want to be the conference champion and go on and win the tournament," Long said. "Those are always the goals you want. This year, it just ran like clockwork."

When Long discovered he was one of only three college basketball players in the country to average more han 21 points per game and 10 rebounds, he said he was quite shocked.

"I found that out about a week ago. I thought, 'One of three people in the nation-that's ME.' It really makes you feel good when you're one of those three. I was shocked in a way and yet I was really happy."

EMU basketball coach Ben Braun, in his second year as head coach of the Hurons, said he is very pleased with Long and his contributions to the team.

"Grant's contributions to our program are great in a lot of ways. Sometimes they get overlooked," he said. "His contributions work as a model. "Grant helped himself more than anything. He made a significant improvement on his strength."

Long's former high school basketball coach, Al Wilkerson, said he has noticed a positive change in Long since he's been at Eastern.

"Grant's grown a lot in four or five years. He's got things into perspective. He's understood what loyalty is all about and he'll be a great role model," said Wilkerson who coached Long as a junior and senior. "It makes me proud to see how he's developed as a person."

In his personal and school life, Long said is just ordinary. He is a criminal justice major and plans on graduating in the summer or next fall.

After graduation, he said he would like to get a job in his field.

"In the back of my mind, I want to say I want to be a private investigator, but the risks involved are too fatal. I might look at something a little more relaxing such as probation."

He said he would like to work with younger people and he is interested in the fight against crack cocaine.

"I'd like to be part of someone's life who may be leaning towards drug," said Long, who became interested in the subject when he saw a television commercial on drugs. "I figured as a person, I might be in the newspapers a lot or on TV. And with the success of the team, I figured why not put it on a hat or shirt. So I put it on a hat and whenever I'm interviewed, I try to have it on."

Long also recently visited Ypsilanti High School for a presentation on drugs.

As a family person, Long has his mother, Dorothy, and four brothers; George, the oldest, and three younger brothers, Jerry, Lamont and Julius.

His relationship with uncle, John Long, is very good, according to Grant.

"He called me just the other night and before the NCAA Tournament to wish me luck."

As for support, Long said his girlfriend, Nikki, who he has been with since 11th grade, is probably his "biggest and best fan."

"She's always there for me. Through the good and the bad. The wins and the losses. I could always talk to her and she would show me the better side of the situation."

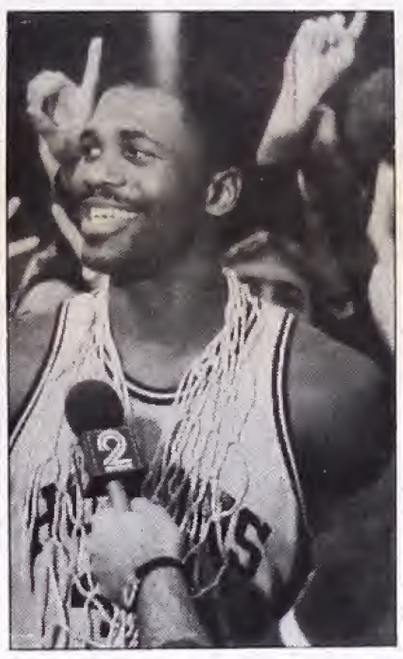
As for Braun's support, Long said "Coach Braun has helped me a lot as a person. He's a great person you want to know and a great person you want to have in your life all of the time. He's a very positive person."

Braun said besides Long winning the MAC MVP and the MAC Tournament MVP honors, he also was named to Basketball Weekly's 1988 second team All-Midwest region team, Basketball Times All-Mideast team, and he was named first on the list of Basketball Time's All-Rodney team, in honor of players who received "no respect," named after comedian Rodney Dangerfield.

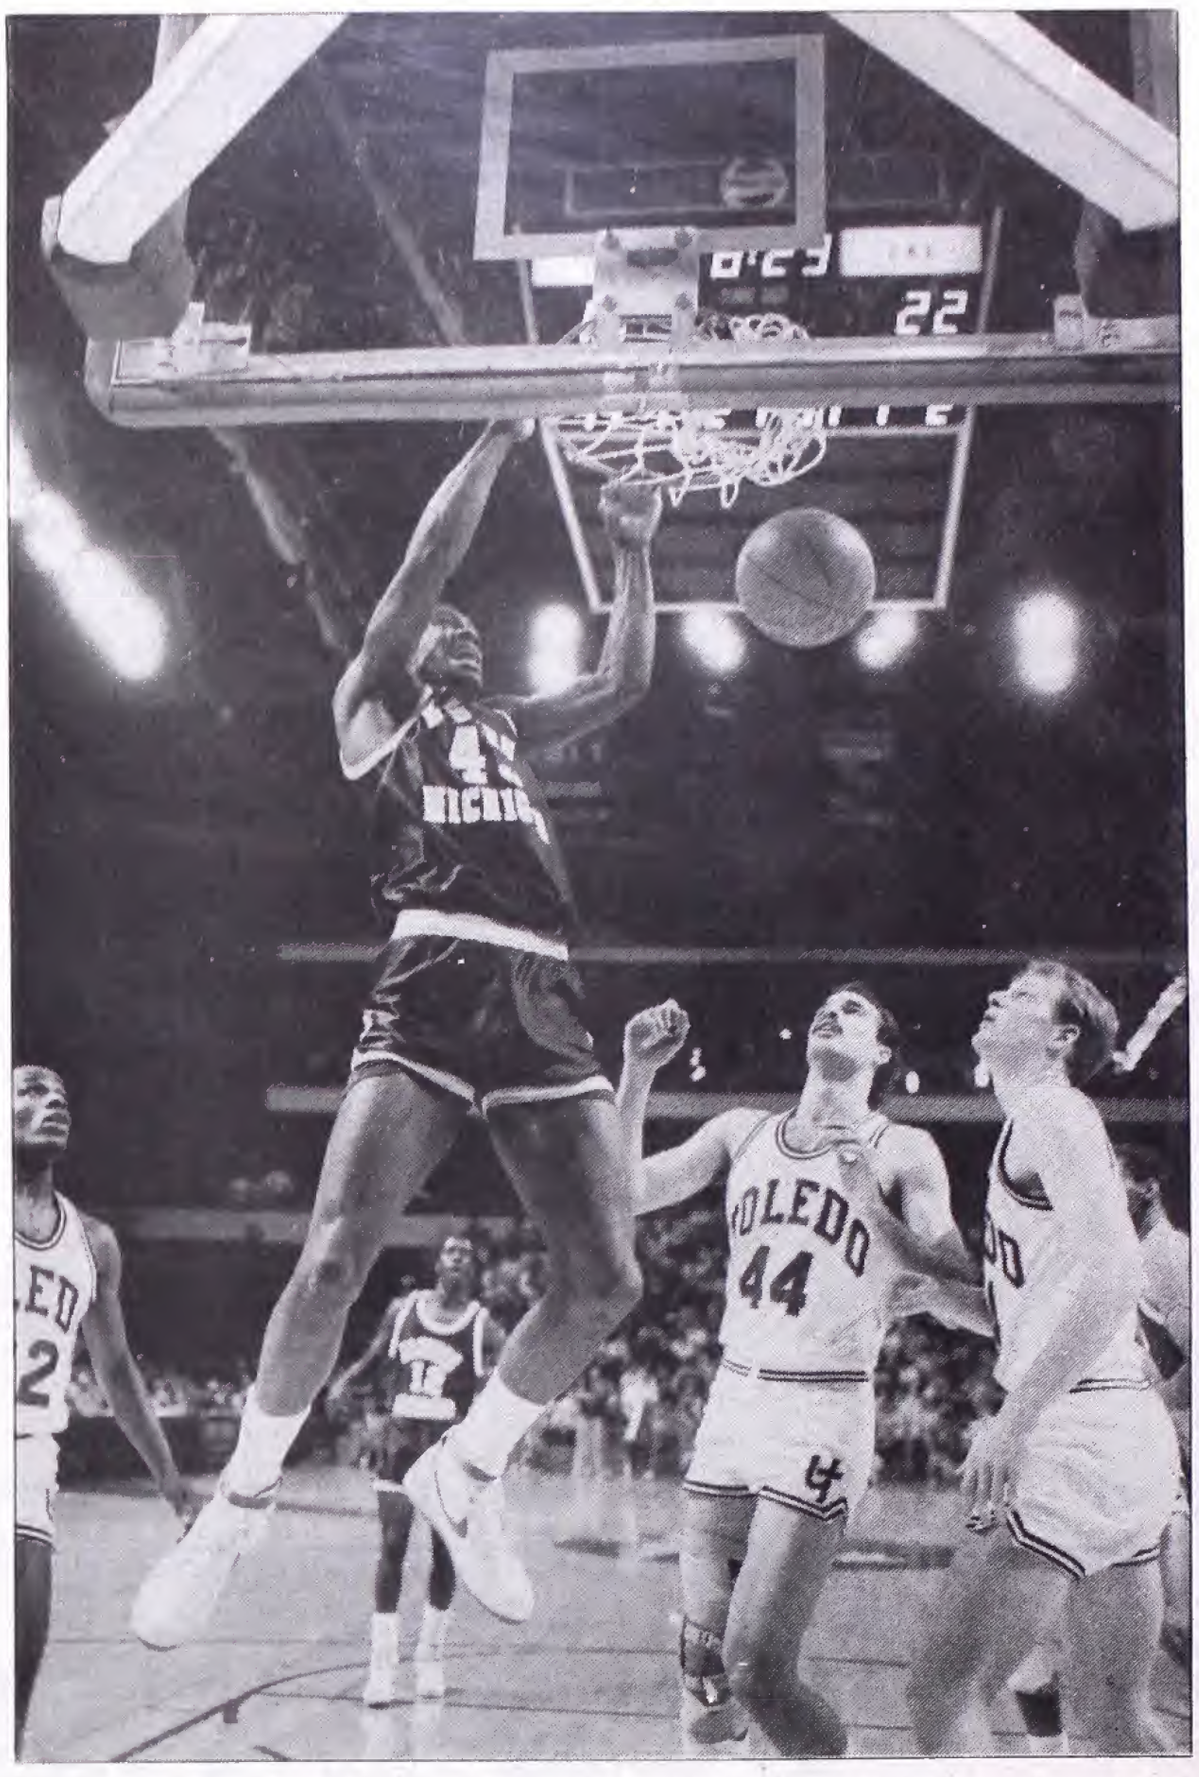
Braun said of Long's accomplishments, "Grant just came on this year. A lot of writers never had the chance to see him. He didn't really get his name around a lot."

The All-Rodney?

He's not a Rodney anymore. He gave it a shot.



Meeting with the news media after EMU captured their first conference title and was NCAA tournament-bound, Grant Long has nothing but smiles for his fans. The only question that remains in Long's sensational cage career is what NBA team will draft him. Photo courtesy, EMU Public Relations Department.



With Toledo defenders looking on, Eastern Michigan University's Grant Long cuts through to the basket for a couple of points. Long, a former All-Area cager from Romulus High, brought the curtains down on a brilliant collegiate career, leading the Hurons to a National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament berth for the first time in EMU's history. The Hurons were ousted by Pittsburgh in the first round of the play-offs. Photo courtesy of EMU Public Relations Department

It's tee time in the area

Think snow!

While this saying is popular among snowmobilers and skiers, some golfers do not share the same sentiments. One remedy, of course, is a sojourn to the sunbelt. Here are some tips for those planning a winter golfing excursion.

• Those traveling by air may wish to purchase a golf bag travel cover. These are available in a variety of colors, materials and price ranges. The main consideration in selection should be durability.

Zippers should work easily, and seams should be well-sewn. Since most travel bags are quite roomy, one can utilize the inside area for golf shoes, extra boxes of golf balls, etc. To ensure additional protection, use head covers on all wood clubs. The golf bag cover for your bag will provide extra protection.

FEARSOME PHOBIAS

Modern-day 'Yellow Fever' claims myriad victims

Although phobias are relatively common disorders – estimated to affect about 13 percent of the population – those suffering from the disorders commonly believe they are alone in their fears.

According to a survey condicted by the National Institute of Mental Health, those afflicted with phobias, obsesive-compulsive behavior and paninc disorders make up 8.3 percent of the population, or some 13 million Americans – a figure which is higher than that of Americans suffering from depression or from alcohol/drug abuse, according to the six-year NIMH survey.

The study also revealed that only about 23 percent of those 13 million people afflicted with phobias and similar disorders ever seek treatment.

Roger Dallwig, director of Her Place/His Place Counseling Center, said that victims of phobias often "change their environment to avoid the cause of their phobias," rather than to seek treatment. He noted that people usually only seek aid when their phobias intertere with their work or life style.

"For example, if a businessman has a fear of flying and his job requires him to make numerous cross-country flights, he will be forced to deal with his phobia," Dallwig said. "On the other hand, a person who has a phobia about snakes can usually avoid contact with them, and, consequently probably would not seek treatment."

The same guideline applies to agoraphobia – one of the most common phobias, Dallwig said. If the fear becomes so disabling that the person finds that it drastically restricts his or her life, then treatment will be sought.

"Agoraphoia is literally the fear of open spaces, but it is essentially the experiencing of panic attacks in crowds or in social situations," Dallwig said. "For example, the person may go into a crowded store and feel faint and experience anxiety. In turn, these symptoms can produce physiological reactions – trembling, heart palpitations, difficulty in breathing and profuse perspiring. These sensations are so unpleasant that the individual will want to avoid similar situations in the future.

"There may be no clear cut cause and effect for the unpleasant symptoms, but even thinking about returning to the place where they began may bring on the symptoms," Dallwig said. "The fear then becomes the fear itself."

Dallwig said phobias are more than frights – they are fears with an intensity which is irrational and inappropriate and which prompt reactions which are out of proportion to the event.

Treatment for phobias center around desensitization, Dallwig said. It would consist of building a hierarchy of exposure to the object until the subject loses his or her fear.

"If a person has a phobia of snakes, we would ask him to rate his level of fear on a scale of one to ten in several different situations – looking at a picture of a snake, thinking of a snake, viewing snakes behind glass at the zoo and being in the same room as a snake," the therapist said. "We would determine which of the situations produced the least amount of anxiety and begin to deal with that situation – gradually building up to dealing with the higher levels of fear. At the same time, the therapist would give support and also work with the thinking process and deal with the belief system of the individual."

Often, Dallwig said, the person cannot pinpoint the cause of the phobia. For example, a fear of animals could possibly be the result of a childhood experience that the individual has repressed, he said.

"Those who have phobias know what they are fearful of," Dallwig said, "but those who experience panic attacks, don't know what they are afraid of. For example, they may have been in a car and suddenly felt that they have to pull over to the side of the road and get out, or they may have been in a public place and felt they had to leave immediately. During a panic attack, the person may fear that he or she will lose control, faint or even die."

Dallwig said he examines the "self talk" of the individual under those circumstances, and, perhaps, change the self talk to a positive message. Again, he said, offering support to the victim of the anxiety attack is an important part of the treatment.

"When the person feels the panic attack coming, we ask the individual to let it come, to face it and not run away," Dallwig said. "We attempt to counter it with rational thoughts and to convince the individual that the thing that they fear most will not happen under usual circumstances."

Dallwig, who recently presented a workshop on the subject, sees phobias and panic attacks as "increasing problems," which the victims "feel alone in having."

Information about a new group session for victims of phobias can be obtained by calling Dallwig at 281-2620.

Area group offers help for phobia sufferers

Everyone is afraid of something. And some people are afraid of everything.

Dave Duboff, member of the Anxiety Support Group, in Ann Arbor, admits he has the latter.

"People with multiple fears have agoraphobia. Taken from Latin, agoraphobia is classically called fear of the marketplace. People frequently stay home because certain situations frighten them. This is my fear," said Duboff.

After fighting his problem alone for 10 years, Dubnoff joined a support group four years ago. Now, he said, his fears have not gone away, but his attitude and outlook on life are much better.

"Success runs in cycles. I have my ups and downs. Sometimes it's better, sometimes it's more difficult," he said.

Doctors in the psychiatric department of the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, formed an anxiety disorder support group several years ago to help people with problems such as Duboff's. "Disorder" was dropped from the support group name because of the "negative" connotation. Today, the group operates autonomously from the hospital.

Duboff said individuals in the support group have expressed just about every imaginable fear – from riding an elevator to claustrophobia to writing a check in public. Some people have a fear of opening mail, he explained.

And then there are obsessive-compulsive people. People who in a restaurant might return to their cars to check if the door is locked several times during an evening.

"We found a commonality among people in our group. Phobic people are afraid they may panic in a particular situation. They are uncomfortable with something and afraid to tell someone," Duboff said. "They feel they lack self-worth and self-esteem. These fears cross both men and women of all ages."

Normally, from eight to 10 people attend the weekly Thursday meetings. The group members always sit in a circle. The first few minutes are spent introducing themselves and their problems to fellow members.

"We ask questions and offer feedback. We share our own experiences. We talk about how we overpowered our fears. Most of the time, we feel better," said Duboff, who works in the communications field.

The most common phobia, Duboff said, is public speaking. That is followed closely by the fear of heights and claustrophobia – fear of closed-in spaces.

"With the help of a psychologist and exposure therapy, group members can overcome a frightening situation with mild doses of exposure. Group therapy was one of the best things to ever happen to me," Duboff said.

People interested in becoming a part of the group should call 761-2418 for more information.

JUST MARRIED

Franklin – Barber

Deanna Elizabeth Franklin, of Austin, Texas, and Brian David Barber, of Austin, were united in marriage Feb. 6 at the Westover Hills Church of Christ, Austin. The Rev. Shawn Wells officiated during the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Judith Roberts, of Austin, and Dennis Franklin, of Belleville. She attends Austin Community College, majoring in psychology.

The groom is the son of Delbert and the late Julia Barber, of Austin. He works at Con-Cor, in Austin.

The bridal dress was a white, organza, floor-length gown, with 5-foot train, fitted bodice, three-tier full skirt, with each ruffled edge in lace and leg-of-mutton sleeves. The gown was embellished with appliques of lace roses, seed pearls and iridescent sequins.

She carried a bouquet of white roses, lilies, carnations and lily of the valley. Her veil was a circle of white, silk flowers, adorned with iridescent sequins and a white, satin bow at the back of the chapel-length veil.

The bride's mother gave her away.

Yvonne Brooks, of Austin, served as maid of honor for the occasion.

Mark Barber, the groom's brother, was best man, and Mike Nissen was an usher.

Grandparents participating in the event were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Burchfiel, of Romulus, Lloyd Franklin, of Wayne, Ann Franklin, of Romulus, Beaula Barber, of Uvalde, Texas, and Gracie Vansau, of Austin.

A reception followed the ceremony at the bride's and groom's new home in Austin. Close friends and family members attended.

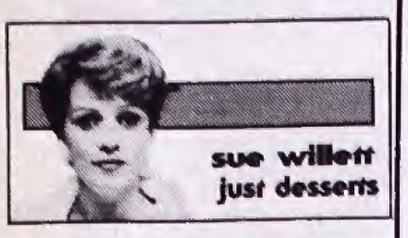
Cooking

The real dessert



The ancient Roman emperors loved them. Grecian rulers and philosphers cried for them. They make strong men weep and have ruined many a woman. We speak, of course, of cheesecake, the ultimate dessert.

Long established as the ultimate culinary creation, many consider cheesecake an American invention while the actual credit has to go to an unknown cook back in the first century. Today, recipes for the delicacy abound and the types of cheese used in preparation of the cake have changed markedly.

This is a great recipe for the busy cook who wants an elegant cheesecake but doesn't have time to bake. The filling is made with cottage cheese which has been beaten until light and creamy. Whipped cream, teamed with gelatin and eggs, adds volume and a smooth, silky texture. Creating the marbelized effect is simple. Just melt chocolate in cream to give it the proper consistency for swirling, then layer it with the cottage cheese base in the prepared crust and swirl with a spoon.

CHOCOLATE MARBLE CHEESECAKE

Crust:
2 Cups chocolate cookie wafer crumbs
1/2 cup confectioners sugar
1/2 cup (1 stick butter, melted

For crust, combine crumbs and sugar. Stir in butter. Press mixture firmly and evenly against the bottom and halfway up the sides of a 9-inch springform pan. Chill.

Filling:
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/3 cup all-purpose flour
3/4 cup granulated sugar, divided
1 1/2 cups milk
4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 package (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 cup whipping cream
2 cups cottage cheese
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
4 egg whites

For filling, sprinkle gelatin over water to soften. Combine flour and 1/4 cup sugar. Stir in milk. cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add small amount of hot mixture to egg yolks. Return all to saucepan. Cook one additional minute. Add softened gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool to lukewarm. Melt chocolate pieces with 1/3 cup whipping cream over low heat, stirring constantly, until choclate is melted. (Refrigerate remaining cream until used.) Remove from heat and cool to lukewarm. Beat cottage cheese five minutes on highest speed of mixer. Blend in vanilla and almond extracts and gelatin mixture. Beat egg whites until foamy. Continue beating and gradually add remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Beat until stiff peaks form. Fold beaten egg whites into gelatin mixture. Whip remaining 2/3 cup cream in a chilled bowl with chilled beaters until stiff peaks form. Fold into gelatin mixture. Spoon about 1/3 of filling into crust. Drizzle thin stream of chocolate over filling. Swirl with spoon into marble pattern. Repeat until filling and chocolate are used. Chill several hours or overnight. To serve, place cake on serving plate and carefully remove sides of pan.

NOW THAT'S ENTERTAINMENT

Area cook finds easy ways to please guests

By BETH SUNDRLA
ANP Staff Writer

Doreen Binder doesn't believe in last minute cooking.

When she entertains she cooks in advance, and then visits with her guests when they arrive.

"Most of the cooking I do is cooking that needs very little last minute preparation," she said.

"When people come over I can sit down and enjoy myself," she added.

"If it's going to be social, it should be social," she said. She doesn't believe in leaving the cook in the kitchen slaving over a hot stove when guests have arrived.

Binder says she loves to cook and entertain. She learned cooking from her grandmother, who also gave her some antique cookbooks.

Dated from about 1913, the cookbooks include one of the first Pillsbury cookbooks and a Rumford Way cookbook. "Some of them are so old they don't even have a date on them," she said.

One book of recipes was handwritten by her grandmother.

Also included in her grandmother's cookbooks are tips on things ranging from curing rheumatism to baking bread.

The rheumatism cure, according to an old newspaper clipping is: "Drink a wineglass full of cold hop tea sweetened with sugar two or three times a day."

Binder says she learned to cook with her grandmother more than her mother. "It was really my grandmother more than my mother that let us mess around in the kitchen when we were kids," she said.

Along with her love for cooking she has a love of reading good cookbooks.

"I love to try something that seems to be something I would like," she said.

She also looks for good cookbooks when she is traveling.

"When I'm traveling one of the things I always do is bring back a cookbook indigenous of the area," she said.

One of her favorite cookbooks is from the Pennsylvania Dutch-Amish region of Pennsylvania titled "More Food that Really Schmecks," by Edna Staebler.

Another favorite is "Puttin' on the Peachtree" from Georgia.

When entertaining for friends and family, which she does several times a month, she prepares food in advance.

"I always like to try something I can freeze so it's always available when I need it," she said.

She also prepares goodies for several friends of hers that live in nursing homes.

"I just make food that the people who are coming say they like.

Binder not only cooks, she works full-time in the Van Buren School system. She works as a supervisor of state and federal projects. She also worked for 29 years as principal at Quirk school.

Over the years, she said her cooking and eating habits have changed. There was a time when she didn't eat much chicken, but today she prepares it more.

In her grandmother's day many foods were fried, and that has changed also. But she still prepares apple pie as her grandmother did as well as Yum-yum cake and a special recipe for cole slaw.

"I just cook for fun, but also because I like to eat," she said.

PASTRAMI CHEESE BALL

8 ounce package cream cheese, softened
1/4 cup mayonnaise
2 green onions (some green tops), finely chopped
1 1/2 teaspoons Dijon-type mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons horseradish
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
3 ounces deli pastrami or corned beef, very thinly sliced

Beat cream cheese until smooth, add mayonnaise and blend.

Stir in mustard, horseradish, garlic powder and chopped green onions.

Finely chop pastrami or corned beef in food processor or blender.

Add to creamed cheese mixture and blend.

Shape into rounded ball. Line rounded bowl with plastic wrap, add cheese ball. Gather plastic together at top and seal.

Refrigerate overnight or longer. (This may be frozen).

To serve: Unmold on bed of parsley. Serve with thinly sliced pumpernickel or rye. Yield: 1 cheese ball.

PEPPERONI POTATO SALAD

10 medium potatoes (red preferred)
4 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
1 stick pepperoni sausage, sliced and cubed
1 large onion, chopped
3 hard boiled eggs, sliced, optional
1 tablespoon dill pickle cubes
1/2 to 3/4 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon mustard
salt, pepper, garlic salt to taste
1/2 green pepper, sliced (optional)
1/4 cup sliced green olives (optional)

Boil and slice potatoes while hot. Leave peelings on potatoes if desired. Saute chopped pepperoni and onion in bacon drippings over medium heat for 2-3 minutes or until onion is softened.

Pour hot pepperoni, onion and drippings over potatoes. Toss gently. Add remaining ingredients. Serve immediately or refrigerate until thoroughly chilled and serve. 8 servings.

DIJON CHICKEN

3 whole chicken breasts, halved, boned and skinned
2 cloves of garlic, minced very finely
1/2 cup Dijon mustard
2 teaspoons dried rosemary, crumbled
Freshly ground pepper
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine mustard, garlic, rosemary and pepper.

Brush chicken breasts generously with mixture.

Top with parmesan cheese. Bake for 45 minutes, or longer if breasts are very thick. Serves 6.

FRESH CAULIFLOWER SALAD

Note: be sure tomatoes are chilled before stirring into the salad.

4 cups sliced cauliflower flowerets (small head)
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped onion
2/3 cup dairy sour cream
3 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon snipped fresh dill or 1 teaspoon dried dill weed
A few dashes bottled hot pepper sauce
2 medium tomatoes, seeded and chopped

In large bowl stir together the cauliflower, green pepper and onions. Combine the sour cream, mayonnaise, mustard, sugar, dill and hot pepper sauce. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Gently stir dressing into vegetable mixture. Cover and chill several hours. Just before serving carefully stir tomatoes into salad. Makes 10 servings.

COCONUT CREAM PIE

1 (10-inch) baked pie shell
2/3 cup sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk
4 egg yolks beaten
2 tablespoons butter
4 teaspoons vanilla
1 (10-ounce) package flaked coconut
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped

In saucepan, stir together sugar, cornstarch, and salt. Blend milk and egg yolks and gradually stir into sugar mixture.

Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Boil and stir one minute.

Remove from heat and blend butter and vanilla. Add 3/4 can of coconut. Pour into pie shell. Refrigerate. Before serving top with whipped cream and sprinkle with rest of coconut.

SCONES

3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup butter or margarine
1 cup raisins
1 egg, well beaten
Milk, almost a cupful
Topping:
1 egg yolk, beaten
2 tablespoons milk

Sift flour, baking powder, sugar and salt into a bowl. Cut the butter into the mixture until it is fine, add the raisins, and mix well.

Beat an egg in a measuring cup, add enough milk to fill the cup, stir into flour mixture. Knead lightly, roll out to 3/4 inch thickness, cut into triangles. Brush tops with a beaten egg yolk blended with 2 tablespoons milk. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Eat warm.

HOT ARTICHOKE DIP

1 (14 ounces) can artichokes
1/2 cup parmesan cheese, grated
1 cup real mayonnaise
cornflake crumbs (optional garnish)
paprika (optional garnish)

Drain artichokes well. Put artichokes, mayonnaise and parmesan cheese into a food processor or blender. Process until just blended.

Turn into a 1-quart ovenproof casserole dish and bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Good with wheat crackers or raw vegetables.

VIOLET E. DASHER

Born February 13, 1905, died February 1, 1988. Violet E. Dasher devoted her life to the betterment of education. Equipped with the highest personal ideals she transferred them to the classroom. She demanded the best of her students and even of herself. Her teaching career of over thirty-five years was spent in the State of Michigan. She began teaching in the Ionia County Schools, followed by suburban Melvindale, with the major part of her career in the Wayne Community School System, Wayne, Michigan. Married to Chester Dasher, they lived on Hannan Road where Mr. Dasher was a major truck gardener. They had two children, Chester Dasher, Jr. and Elizabeth Dasher. From the marriages of her children three grandsons and two great grandchildren also survive. While managing a family, home, and teaching she returned to Eastern Michigan University to earn her Bachelor of Science, Master of Arts and Specialist Degrees. After the death of her husband and upon her retirement she resided in the State of Florida. Active in many professional, community, and church programs she gave selflessly of her time to Alpha Delta Kappa of which she was a Life Member. In 1955 she helped establish Theta Chapter in the State of Michigan. She held nearly every local office and served on many state committees. Florida also benefitted from her expertise when she joined Theta Chapter and eventually helped organize one of the first Fidelis Chapters in Florida in 1979. Her hobbies were many; she enlarged upon her love of glass to become a highly respected art glass dealer and traveled throughout the United States attending antique art glass shows. Always desiring to be her very best, her devotion to her academic field of Geography was enhanced by her travels to Europe, Africa, Asia, and to South America. To her close friends she was "Vi;" there were many students who benefited by her teaching but many who never knew their benefactor. She understood, "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, the world and they that dwell therein." Truly she was someone who made a difference!
